FARM FRESH FOOD MARKET

FLANDERS RIVERSIDE NORTHAMPTON

The hamlets of Flanders, Riverside and Northampton don't have local supermarkets or access to the fresh fruit and vegetable markets more readily available in the rest of Southampton Town. We aimed to change that – by providing fresh, healthy, produce from local farms to Flanders and the surrounding communities on a weekly basis throughout the summer and into the fall. Spearheaded by Councilwoman Bridget Fleming, the market began in the summer of 2011 and we are entering 4th season.

LOCAL AGRICULTURE

Did you know that Suffolk County remains the #1 producer of agricultural products in all of New York State in terms of market value? The 2007 U.S. Census of Agriculture estimates that Suffolk County agriculture products represent over 80% in market value of agricultural production sold in New York State.

WHAT DID OUR TEEN STAFFERS HAVE TO SAY ABOUT WORKING AT THE FLANDERS FARM FRESH FOOD MARKET?

Local teenagers work with an adult manager to set up the market, price the produce, serve customers, and clean up every market day. They go through training on food handling, customer service, money management and basic job skills. Some of their comments on the experience are:

"I like helping customers choose vegetables and telling them how to cook them"

"I learned how to deal with people of all different personalities."

"I learned that people enjoy fresh food, and come from all over to get it."

"I learned there are a lot of different types of vegetables."

"We work better with people when there's good communication."
